Aceh's 8.6 quake triggers panic, tsunami alerts

BANDA ACEH—A massive north-quake struck off Indonesia's Sumatra island on Wednesday, triggering an Indian Ocean-wide tsunami alert and evacuation orders to clear people away from the coast.

The 8.6-magnitude quake struck 431 kilometers off the Indonesian city of Banda Aceh, the US Geological Survey said, and was followed by a major 8.2-magnitude aftershock.

Terrified residents poured into the streets of Banda Aceh, which was devastated by a 9.1-magnitude quake in 2004 that triggered an Indian Ocean tsunami, killing 220,000 people including 178,000 in Aceh province.

P-Noy says he has no time to read GMA book

PRESIDENT Aquino wants to read former President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo's memoirs to see things from a totally different perspective.

But Mr. Aquino said the problems Arroyo left for him to solve would keep him from finding time to read her book.

"It would be good if I [we could read about things from] the perspective of someone who's quite a different," Mr. Aquino said when asked yesterday to com-

Joker wants coco farmers to get cash now

SEN. JOKER Arroyo yesterday called for the immediate cash distribution to coconut farmers of assets now estimated at more than P500 billion acquired using a coconut levy collected from them during the martial law years.

Arroyo's call is a statement to the business sector about money by Aquino administration officials and lawmakers to set up a trust fund for coconut farmers out of the proceeds of the assets, principally acquired during the...

P-Noy: Our sovereignty must prevail without violence

By Christine D. Arellano and Tina G. Santos

PRESIDENT Aquino said yesterday he wanted a peaceful resolution of the ongoing standoff between a Philippine warship and two Chinese vessels in the Scarborough Shoal, but made it clear that the country's sovereignty over the area must prevail.

The President was told about the incident on Tuesday night and he promptly met Defense Secretary Voltaire Gamoza and military officials, his spokesmen, Edwin Lucendo, said.

Speaking to reporters after he accepted an honorary doctorate from Centro Escolar University in Manila Hall, Mr. Aquino expressed hopes officials in the Department of Foreign Affairs (DFA) would resolve the dispute in talks with their counterparts in Beijing.

The Philippines said the standoff began on Sunday when its Navy tried to detain Chinese boats fishing in its waters but were stopped by two Chinese surveillance craft. The Chinese Embassy accused the Philippine warship of harassing the fishermen and called for it to leave Chinese territory.

The President said that he had been in contact with Chinese Ambassador Ma Xingyi and that yesterday he asked Foreign Secretary Albert del Rosario to continue the talks.

Binay chides LP officials for sowing intrigue

By Tina G. Santos, Christian V. Eguerra, and Cynthia D. Balana

VICE PRESIDENT Jejomar Binay yesterday said he was not forming an alliance with former President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo as he slammed the "superior" of leaders of the ruling Liberal Party (LP) for their "superior attitude" to look down on Arroyo.

Binay chided the LP officials for sowing intrigue between him and President Aquino. "They want to see us fight," he said. "I am part of the Cabinet and I support President Noyay 100 percent," he said.

Binay recalled that he even had dinner with Mr. Aquino in Malacanang on Tuesday night and attended a meeting until 11 p.m. He said he did not feel any tension between him and the President.

PH has 3 hours to react after rocket launch

By Dona Z. Pazzisugan

PHILIPPINE authorities have just three to four hours after North Korea launches its rocket to warn people in coastal communities in northeastern Luzon to stay clear of the rocket's projected path.

According to Mariano Sacra Jr., one of the founders of the Philippine Astronomical Society, it takes the rocket three to four hours to fall in Philippine territory after it diverges from the rocket.

"It's important that we know the time of launch. That's the bottom line," Sacra told reporters during a briefing at National Disaster Risk Reduction and Management Council (NDRRMC) headquarters in Quezon City.

Sacra, a special consultant to the NDRRMC as a "rocket authority," said the rocket's first booster would fall within waters from launch.

'Napocor privatization a mistake'

Tañada wants gov't return to power generation as solution to Mindanao shortage

By Gil C. Dela Cruz

MANILA Years after the government absorbed P800 billion worth of debt with the privatization of the National Power Corp. (Napocor), a lawmaker yesterday said the government had made a mistake in ending control of the country's power supply to private companies.

"It is time the government returned to the business of power generation as a long-term solution to the power crisis," said Quezon Rep. Lorenzo Tañada (D).

"It is about time that we realize that the ownership of our power source is the result of a structural deficit introduced by the Electric Power Industry Reform Act (EPIRA), I believe that it was gross error for Epir, as envisioned and implemented, to have returned government role in power generation to a Mindanao setting," said Tañada who is the House Deputy Minority Leader.

Tañada made the remarks ahead of the power summit scheduled to convene in Manila on Friday when Epir's Secretary Jose B. Manzano is expected to appear before the House committee to answer questions for his recent decision to allow a P4 per kilowatt-hour (kWh) power rate hike in the region.

going, with additional generating capacity, cooperation to buy additional power supply from private power plants.

Tañada said the dismantling of Napocor's power monopoly has inevitably led to "market failure" as seen in the prevailing power rates in Mindanao where households and businesses have been forced to pay higher electricity rates because of the lack of government planning to cover the island's power supply despite warnings as early as seven years ago.

"One aspect of it has to do with the inability of the private sector to cover the required capacity additions in a timely manner, another has to do with the private power generating companies' unwillingness to invest in power. Both have serious negative impact on supply security, affordability and interest in pricing," he said.

According to Tañada, Congress passed Epir in 2001 in the belief that having market competition in power generation would eventually benefit consumers in the form of lower prices. Full privatization of the state power generation assets has been much delayed, however, with only 79 percent of the state generation Napocor's assets privatized by 2009.

He now believes that "the time has come" for government to re-enter the business of power generation.

'Gov't as player'

"By day, I do not mean a checkmate in the former centralized structure of generation. Instead, I envision a re-entry where government will be a player in generation alongside private corporations. This will give us the flexibility to respond to situations when markets fail, or when strategic public interest is not adequately served by the private sector," said Tañada.

He explained that the government's return to power generation would not require special legislation or wait the grace of emergency powers to the Executive as Epir has done not prohibit the government from participating in the Mindanao generation sector outside of Epirac.

This will mean identifying a representative, who is outside the government's monopoly to power generation, with the right and ability to power facilities in its existing areas, as well as the Calapan-Masinao-Matlabes (CMM) billing identified as a critical need for the implementation of the Epir act.

Benigno Aquino III, president of the United Liberal Congress of the Philippines, yesterday expressed concern over Atty. General's decision to allow the Mindanao power crisis to which electric companies have been forced to buy expensive power from the Manila Group's Thermal Manila power plant, which he said would hurt the region's poor provinces.

He questioned why Atty. General was not quickly the electric companies to buy power from them. Tañada Manzano said that this is about to "modernize financial infrastructure" and lower its charges from P4 to P2 per kWh.

He warned the increase in power rates would be a burden on the region's poor people who would be as power supply from the cheap and independent power plants would be around 2003 per kWh.

P-Noy, Corona at it again

By Christine G. Arellano

THE WAY it works between President Aquino and Chief Justice Corona is both, less than a month, less than the exemption of Corona's impeachment trial and in the Senate.

The President said yesterday he would just pay for the Chief Justice, waiting for the latest developments from the Senate to "move forward with this," they believe.

He said that the Palace would no longer be responsible to Corona as he is not in direct control of the Senate.

His Aquino took back at Corona when he was asked to comment on the Chief Justice's allegation that the government had placed his home under a 24-hour armed guard, ordered the wiretapping of his phone calls and his investigation of family members.

"Maybe the steps taken here in the past will just pay for the Chief Justice," he said.

President said, adding that Corona would have been thinking about a lot of decisions.

He said Corona's allegations would mean "good news" in making an action plan on the issue.

"That would be a good thing," he said.

He even believe that Corona would make during a chance meeting at the Manila Hotel, Mr. Aquino said yesterday.

He said that Corona is a speech at the United Nations in New York where he was scheduled to be seen by the media.

Without mentioning Corona by name, Mr. Aquino said that he is a long-time critic of the judiciary.

"In the past years the justice system seemed to be the most powerful of the law, but it seemed that such provision in the Constitution, there are many who believe that are being manipulated in the spirit of the major media and lawyers," he said.

NOTICE TO ALL PROPERTY OWNERS, LOCATORS AND SUB-LESSEES IN CAMP JOHN HAY

- CAMP JOHN HAY DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION (CJHDEVCO) condemns illegal and unfair business practices. It has not nor has it ever engaged in any double sale, as alleged in a paid advertisement of BCDA.
- BCDA is accusing CJHDevCo of "double sale" on a Log Home BCDA received - and has been using! - as part of a compromise settlement following BCDA's breach of the basic Lease Agreement brought about by the 2003 Supreme Court decision nullifying the Camp John Hay Special Economic Zone benefits. Records will show that the Log Home that BCDA has been making an issue of (while using it) had never been sold to any party before it was given to BCDA.
- CJHDEVCO is current in its rental obligations to BCDA. We dispute the reference by BCDA to P2.9 billion rentals from 2003 to 2008 because BCDA was in default during this period. BCDA also failed its warranties of giving Special Economic Zone benefits to CJHDEVCO from 2003 to 2008 and its 30-day guaranty on issuance of all local and national permits for CJHDEVCO projects from 2008 onwards.
- BCDA cannot point the issue of non-issuance of permits to the HLURB as the HLURB has long held since 6 September 2000 by virtue of a Resolution of the HLURB Executive Committee that sale of leasehold rights over units in Camp John Hay is not subject to the jurisdiction of HLURB. CJHDEVCO therefore does not need permits to sell from the HLURB.
- In its paid advertisement dated 10 April 2012, BCDA incorrectly stated that the Lease Agreement of CJHDEVCO will end on October 18, 2021. THAT IS INCORRECT. CJHDEVCO's Lease Agreement is UP TO OCTOBER 18, 2046.
- All leasehold titles and contracts with CJHDEVCO to date are valid.
- CJHDEVCO challenges BCDA to adhere to the rule of law by laying its claims before the courts and Philippine Dispute Resolution Center instead of engaging in a smear campaign against CJHDEVCO and Mr. Bob Sobropeña. The actions of CJHDEVCO stand on solid grounds. CJHDEVCO calls on BCDA to meet the issues head-to-head before the courts and arbitration body in accordance with existing agreements.

Let the public be assured that CJHDEVCO will exert all legal measures to protect owners, lessors, sub-lessees of the Manor Hotel, Suites Hotel, Log Homes, Cottages and other properties in Camp John Hay, Baguio City.

7,000 summer jobs for poor kids

By Philip C. Tubano

THE PRIVATE sector is offering nearly 7,000 summer jobs for students and out-of-school youth this year to help them pay for their education, Labor Secretary Brenda Baker said yesterday.

Baker said private companies and educational institutions have made available a total of 6,922 jobs this summer under the Department of Labor and Employment Special Program for the Employment of Students (SPES).

"Many companies are recognizing the very positive impact of the SPES, so they are willing to partner with us and sponsor students and out-of-school youth who will work for them on a short-term basis," Baker said.

She said before Technology Philip Glass Inc., Atari Recreation, Goldilocks Bakery, Hingray and Manufacturing Institute, Providence, Inc., and Maybank Philippines had summer jobs. SPES beneficiaries receive salaries not less than the prevailing minimum wage in the region where they will be employed.

at every stage of life,
for every Filipino.

A partnership bonded by a shared passion
— to give every Filipino quality and affordable nutrition

Twenty years have passed since the first run of Alaska Exported Filled Milk, in collaboration with FrieslandCampina, was produced to nourish the Filipino. The centuries, the passion to give quality nutrition has never stopped beating.

Today, the partnership that was formed between the Uyanga family and the Dutch dairy co-operative just got stronger through the increased investment of FrieslandCampina in Alaska Milk.

Royal FrieslandCampina is the leading dairy company in Netherlands. It is the 14th largest in the world. Today, it operates in 23 countries and supplies more than 100 products.

To Alaska Milk, this partnership presents limitless possibilities when it comes to giving quality nutrition. In Alaska Milk's complete globally through the possible distribution of Alaska Milk products in various countries outside the Philippines.

In addition to learning through exchange of best manufacturing and marketing practices, technology, and science with this partnership is expected to elevate food and security awareness in milk processing in the Philippines.

"We expect this historical agreement to provide Alaska Milk with the necessary support and the products developed by FrieslandCampina will strengthen our position in all dairy categories. The extended integration will provide Alaska Milk with access to an international dairy company. It is a testament to our aspiration to bring our business and products globally," said Willem Steen Uyanga, President and Chief Executive Officer of Alaska Milk Corporation.

Alaska Milk and FrieslandCampina are both committed to providing 100 million Filipinos, sharing the same passion of providing consumers with affordable and world-class products.

Twenty years ago, Alaska Milk devoted itself to providing quality and affordable nutrition to Filipinos. Today, it continues and is further reinforced by this renewed partnership. Alaska Milk Corporation and FrieslandCampina remain a team with one passion — the passion to give quality and affordable nutrition at every stage of life, for every Filipino.

Not in Speaker's character

THIS REVEALS to the recent performance survey conducted by Peter Hain, an independent MP, which showed the rating of House Speaker Nicholas "Sonny" Wicker to go down from 40 percent to 36 percent. (October, 19/1/12) These published observers attributed Speaker Wicker's drop in ratings to his version of a Mitt Romney comparison that the Speaker presented, the 100 congressmen opposing the impeachment complaints against Barack Obama.

Should public and social Congress should be constrained by the independence issue? These questions will be seen.

Clark Air Base in Pampanga, Camp John Hay in Baguio, Malabon RC Station in La Union, and the former Philippine Foreign Processing Center (PFPC) in Marikina, Batangas. BICs are also expected to create opportunities for investment and employment in Central Luzon.

On March 12, 1990, President Corason C. Aquino signed into law R.A. 7227 or the Bases Conversion and Development Act of 1992.

Despite the obstacles, the BICs have been expressed as genuine revenues locally. It was given other assets, such as the various former military camps in Metro Manila, including the Baguio and Villamor Air Bases, for sale and disposition. Proceeds from the disposition of these assets will also finance the modernization program of the armed forces of the Philippines (AFP) and provide funds to 14 other government agencies.

SCDA immediately buckled down at work, developing areas, entering into partnerships with private companies and master-developers, and breaking ground for major projects to convert the abandoned lands into vibrant world-class commercial and residential communities and centers of economic growth.

Where the money went

The emergence of SCDA as a premier investment partner can be seen from its funds to date.

From May 1992 to January 2012, SCDA generated P52,577 million from the sale of military facilities within Metro Manila. Of this amount, P13,439 million was remitted to the National Treasury, some P11,785 million went to the AFP where P12,292 million was allocated for its Modernization Program and P9,496 million was allocated for the replication of military facilities. Similarly, P1,480 million was remitted to the National Treasury for the country's National Modernization Program (NMP) that featured major housing projects for the underprivileged and homeless.

Linking people and business

SCDA's achievements, however, cannot be measured alone in monetary terms. It has likewise triumphed in building communities and nurturing development for all.

The former Clark Air Base has been converted into what is now known as the Clark Freeport and Special Economic Zone (CFPSEZ), housing some 546 facilities. Total investments have reached P1,310 billion and total exports hit $2.35 billion by end of 2011. From 29,000 people employed in the former US Clark Base, the CFPSEZ has given new jobs to 14,055 Filipinos.

Up north, the First Point Project Zone (FPFZ) in La Union is now home to three devoted features—a five-star Sheraton resort, a luxury hotel, and a state-of-the-art airport terminal—completed by an international team and a state-of-the-art golf course. The former Philippine Foreign Processing Center (PFPC) in Marikina, Batangas, too, (PFPC) has posted P1.2 billion into this venture, a major chunk of the P1.37 billion investments in the FPFZ in 2011.

The San Fernando Airport, also turned to the FPFZ, has been improved and plans underway to upgrade it further in the near future. With the airport and airport facilities, just kilometers from each other, the SCDA corridor FPFZ is to be the global gateway to the north.

Close in Baguio, the John Hay Special Economic Zone (JHSEZ) continues to be a promoter tourist destination. The Pampanga Festival, a tourist draw in Baguio, was spearheaded by the SCDA and its subsidiary John Hay Management Corporation (JHMC), in 1995.

Meanwhile, the former Philippine Foreign Processing Center (PFPC) in Marikina, Batangas, a 30-minute drive from the Subic Bay Freeport Zone, is now the Batangas Technology Park.

A most notable accomplishment is the last issue, the 34th-century Subic Bay Harbor Expressway (SBTHX) running from Subic Bay in Zambales all the way to Manila. It was completed in record time of less than three years and started full operations on July 25, 2008. This expressway represents SCDA policy shift from merely creating special economic zones within Clark and Subic to expanding their influence to the rest of the country. The SBTHX has become an efficient access to the Subic Bay Inland Port and the Clark International Airport (CIAN), including direct-line Clark to Subic via a mere 40 minutes and 20 minutes from Clark to Manila.

The airport in Clark, the airport in Subic Bay and the SBTHX have created a portal by which Chinese-Luzon can now trade directly with international markets without having to contend with the creaking bottlenecks of Metro Manila. SCDA made the construction of similar expressways viable. The 80-kilometer Talar-Pangasinan via -Guisan Expressway (TPLEX), a project of the Department of Public Works and Highways (DPWH), will connect the SBTHX all the way to La Union, providing seamless and speedy travel to motorists.

Modern cities

Who would ever think that the ruins of World War II-era Fort Bonifacio would someday transform into an upscale residential-ecological community? SCDA's partnership with the Fort Bonifacio De-

Business and Presidential Election in the country today

Similarly, ECH through a joint venture partnership with Singapore-based Capricorn Inc., one of the fastest growing real estate development companies today, has completely changed the landscape of the coast west of Cebu City. The Philippine Air Force (PAF) under former Villamor the Base was a high-end leisure and entertainment city called Newport City that houses the world class Powers World Manila, Maximo Hotel and Maximo Hotel.

Collectively, the Memphis Global City and Newport City have already generated over $5,000 jobs and provided the local government units or LGUs with tax revenues that can help improve services for their respective constituencies.

Moving forward

Twenty years later, the RCEs's development projects continue. Led by Chairman of the Board Felicitas C. Nolasco, President and CEO Ated Pascual D. Canino, and the members of the Board of Directors, the agency has set its sights on more innovative big-risk projects to vigorously push the government's national development thrust.

The key is to create different economic links in all SICA states that work in synergy through carefully planned activities.

cities in Central and Northern Luzon such as Para Point in La Union, Jolo City in Sulu, Marikina in Rizal, and Clark in Pampanga and Tarlac. These economic hubs will complement and strengthen each other and increase business, tourism, trade and investments.

In metropolitan infrastructure consisting of the Clark International Airport, San Francisco's BART and Airport to La Brea, and the Pacific Harbor Expressway (I-105), the Clark Harbor Expressway (I-105) shall be further developed and enhanced to bring the greatest impact to the national economy. Therefore, the development of several railway systems, such as the national high-speed rail system to South America, and the high-speed rail system connecting Mexico and Clark Harbor Special Economic Zone in Angeles, Pompano shall be included by the construction of the railroads.

Ultimately, the NECA areas are to become hotspots of globally competitive and sustainable centers of economic activities that shall ripple and spread throughout their respective regions. Consequently, these economic hubs, taken together would serve as a tipping point for national economic development which is sustainable and inclusive.

As 2010, BCDA is more determined and confident to build the country with people expected to change landscapes and transform lives of millions for the better.

THE FUTURE
The future of the industry is bright, says the industry's leading trade association, the National Association of Broadcasters (NAB). The association's 2007-2012 Strategic Plan, released last week, outlines a vision for the industry's future, with a focus on innovation, diversity, and public service. The plan also calls for the industry to continue to work closely with the government and the public to ensure that the industry remains a vital part of the American media landscape.

Making noise
A musician who's been making noise because of single-mindedly trying to get a prize project, says an audience member, it's a long way to get back to his good years by doing something. Contrary to what he's been told, he's not a failure.

The two already had a falling out, says, now, a movie says, it's a long way to get back to his good years by doing something. Contrary to what he's been told, he's not a failure.
